Online course: Understanding trauma

This Solihull Approach online course 'Understanding trauma' is for practitioners working with children, families and adults.

The aim of this course is to deepen understanding of the effects of trauma, the recovery process and how society can support recovery from trauma. The course integrates this with the Solihull Approach model.

What does it include?

Type 1 and Type 2 trauma. The window of tolerance. Stages of going through a traumatic experience. Neurology and trauma. Recognising trauma. Recovery from trauma. SELF model. Trauma, attachment and epigenetics. Community trauma. Organisational trauma. Trauma aware community.

How does it relate to the Solihull Approach model?

For those who have completed the Solihull Approach 2 Day Foundation course, this online course will enable extra layers of depth, helping both ways: increasing understanding of the model and its applications as well as using the concepts to illuminate an understanding of trauma. It will help move theory into practice.

This is a Solihull Approach Advanced training. This course will contribute to Solihull Advanced Trained Practitioner status.

For those who do not know about the Solihull Approach model there is a brief introduction in this module and containment and reciprocity are mentioned throughout the course. To make best use of all elements of the Course it is an advanced stage to have completed the Solihull Approach 2 Day Foundation training. Your local area may put on the Solihull Approach 2 Day Foundation training or there are regular trainings in Solihull.
